
OUR CONTRIBUTORS

Mary Adams is Co-Publisher of Edible Nutmeg. She is an artist and sculptor who enjoys writing and cooking. Her work in various media, including bronze sculpture, is in many private collections. She has divided her time between Savannah and Washington Depot for 17 years.

Jennifer Brown, owner of Wild Indigo, is a writer, horticulturist and yoga teacher who recently moved from Connecticut just over the border into the Berkshires. She specializes in gardening organically for private clients. She sadly stepped down from the Board of CT NOFA but still coordinates their annual conference Cultivating an Organic Connecticut. www.wild-indigo.com.

Alexandra Chalif, MS, MP, is a psychotherapist and hypnotherapist. A longtime Washington, CT, resident, she has offices in Washington and Manhattan. With Sandra Rawlings, she is founder of Starbright Products Inc. that makes quality gifts around themes of Feng Shui and Good Luck. www.starbrightproducts.com.

Sharon Lauer is Head of the Unquowa School, an independent elementary school in Fairfield, CT that serves children PreK through Eighth Grade. Her great-grandparents were fruit farmers in Dover, Pennsylvania, and she grew up on tall tales of her father's summers spent there.

Melissa Waldron Lehner is Advertising Manager for Edible Brooklyn and a Contributing Producer for The Leonard Lopate Show on WNYC, where she produces a regular monthly segment with Leonard and Ruth Reichl having cutting edge conversations at the crossroads of food. The program won the 2006 James Beard Foundation Award for Radio Food Show.

Michel Nischan is the author of Taste Pure and Simple and Home Grown Pure and Simple. In association with philanthropist Paul Newman, he is creating The Dressing Room—a restaurant adjacent to the Westport Country Playhouse. It will feature seasonal, market-driven menus and regional heritage dishes.

Robert J. Reynolds has been in pursuit of great olive oil ever since he and his wife spent a year near Florence, Italy, in the mid-1990s. He serves on the board of directors of Wurd Media, Inc.—an internet-based digital media distribution company—and is also Vice President and Director of Mid-Hudson Cablevision, Inc. Mr. Reynolds has a Master of Science degree in philosophy from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. His Masters thesis, On the Value of Human Connectedness to Nature, was published in 1994. He lives with his family in Washington, CT.

Georgia Sheron has been a photojournalist and photographer since the late 1960's. Her work on John Ludorf was awarded a Connecticut Commission on the Arts Individual Artists Grant. Since 1986, Ms. Sheron has owned and operated a studio and fine art photography gallery in Oakville, CT. www.georgiasherom.com.

Henry Talmage is the Executive Director of the Connecticut Farmland Trust. He has a degree from Cornell in agricultural economics and for 20 years was Director of Operations for Talmage Farm, a family owned greenhouse and nursery business with a retail farm and garden store in Riverhead, NY. He lives in Glastonbury. www.ctfarmland.org.

Carlole Topalian is widely recognized for her work as a professional photographer and creative director. She is also co-founder of Edible Communities®, Inc., where she shares her considerable talents with members nationwide. When she is not behind her tripod, she can be found riding America's bike trails. You can view her work online at: www.topalianphoto.com.

John Turenne owns Sustainable Food Systems, a consulting and technical services company that helps organizations consider social, ecological and delicious differences in their business through the way they think about food. He was formerly Executive Chef at Yale where he designed, developed and implemented the Yale Sustainable Food Project. In addition to A Celebration of Taste, John contributed the Cooking Fresh column. www.sustainablefoodsystems.com.

Elizabeth "Liz" Wheeler is the producer of the Celebration of Connecticut Farms. She was the first Director of Development for the CFT and resigned that position in December 2005 when she moved to West Virginia. Previously she was Program Director for the Hartford Food System.
